BONUS SESSION ONE HOMEWORK: World Building Expanded

Yay! Here's your BONUS World Building EXPANDED homework!

Think about your story's world, just like you did before, but this time...THINK BIGGER! Ask yourself these questions, then right you answer underneath it:

1. How does my story's region interact with surrounding areas? An example: Hogwarts's School of Magic was one of several schools.
2. What are the products and services imported into my region? What are exported out? To where? From where? Why? What's the history?
3. What are the sources of conflict between the people/creatures in my region and the ones around them? NOTE: Apply the 4-character dimensions on a societal scale.

BONUS SESSION ONE HOMEWORK: World Building Expanded

4. What is the predominant/underlying conflict in my story's region? (In How to Train Your Dragon the story begins with the reflexive fear that humans had of dragons. Hiccup discovered a different way to interact with dragons, but only after he faced what he thought was certain death.)

5. How does this conflict impact my main characters?
